

emulate, the wisdom and perseverance of my mother, Lydia, was a continuous source of inspiration that softened the sharp edges during trying times. The presence in my life of Janan, my daughter, is a source of joy and provided the energy to continue. Her love and understanding are greatly appreciated. Her sharp intellect and sense of justice are highly admired. I am privileged to have her in my life. My greatest debt is to my companion and closest friend, Randa, whose encouragement and support in so many different ways were indispensable. She provided lots of love and patience. For everything, but above all for her humanity, I am most grateful.
